

Safeguarding vulnerable adults policy

Introduction

SOUND RESOURCE is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of vulnerable adults engaged in the breadth of its activities.

The purpose of this policy is to outline the duty and responsibility of practitioners, volunteers and trustees working on behalf of Sound Resource in relation to the protection of vulnerable adults from abuse.

All adults have the right to be safe from harm and should be able to live free from fear of abuse, neglect and exploitation.

The key objectives of this policy are:

- To explain the responsibilities Sound Resource and its practitioners, volunteers and trustees have in respect of vulnerable adult protection.
- To provide practitioners and volunteers with an overview of vulnerable adult protection.
- To provide a clear procedure that will be implemented where vulnerable adult protection issues arise.

Context

For the purpose of this document 'adult' means a person aged 18 years or over.

Some adults are less able to protect themselves than others, and some have difficulty making their wishes and feelings known. This may make them vulnerable to abuse.

The broad definition of a 'vulnerable adult' referred to in the 1997 Consultation Paper 'Who decides?' issued by the Lord Chancellor's Department, is a person:

"Who is or may be in need of community care services by reason of mental or other disability, age or illness; and who is or may be unable to take care of him or herself, or unable to protect him or herself against significant harm or exploitation".

The first priority should always be to ensure the safety and protection of vulnerable adults. To this end it is the responsibility of all involved in Sound Resource charity, to act on any suspicion or evidence of abuse or neglect (see the Public Interest Disclosure Act 1998) and to pass on their concerns to a responsible person/agency.

For purposes of ensuring consistent and widely understood terminology, these policy and procedures will use the phrase 'Vulnerable Adults' to identify those eligible for interventions within the procedures.

Safeguarding vulnerable adults policy

Legal framework

This guidance reflects the principles contained within the Human Rights Act 1998, the Mental Capacity Act 2005 and Public Interest Disclosure Act 1998.

The Mental Capacity Act 2005, covering England and Wales, provides a statutory framework for people who lack capacity to make decisions for themselves, or who have capacity and want to make preparations for a time when they may lack capacity in the future. It sets out who can take decisions, in which situations, and how they should go about this.

The Human Rights Act 1998 gives legal effect in the UK to the fundamental rights and freedoms contained in the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR).

The Public Interest Disclosure Act 1998 (PIDA) created a framework for whistle blowing across the private, public and voluntary sectors. The Act provides almost every individual in the workplace with protection from victimisation where they raise genuine concerns about malpractice in accordance with the Act's provisions.

The role of practitioners, volunteers and trustees

All practitioners, volunteers and trustees working on behalf of Sound Resource have a duty to promote the welfare and safety of vulnerable adults.

Practitioners, volunteers and trustees may receive disclosures of abuse and observe vulnerable adults who are at risk. This policy will enable practitioners/volunteers to make informed and confident responses to specific adult protection issues.

What is abuse?

Abuse is a violation of an individual's human and civil rights by any other person or persons.

Abuse may consist of a single act or repeated acts. It may be physical, verbal or psychological, it may be an act of neglect or an omission to act, or it may occur when a vulnerable person is persuaded to enter into a financial or sexual transaction to which he or she has not consented, or cannot consent. Abuse can occur in any relationship and it may result in significant harm to, or exploitation of, the person subjected to it.

The Department of Health in its 'No Secrets' report suggests the following as the main types of abuse:-

- Physical abuse- including hitting, slapping, pushing, kicking, misuse of medication, restraint, or inappropriate sanctions.
- Sexual abuse- including rape and sexual assault or sexual acts to which the vulnerable adult has not consented, or could not consent or was pressured into consenting.
- Psychological abuse- including emotional abuse, threats of harm or abandonment, deprivation of contact, humiliation, blaming, controlling, intimidation, coercion, harassment, verbal abuse, isolation or withdrawal from services or supportive networks.
- Financial or material abuse- including theft, fraud, exploitation, pressure in connection with wills, property or inheritance or financial transactions, or the misuse or misappropriation of property, possessions or benefits.
- Neglect and acts of omission- including ignoring medical or physical care needs, failure to provide access to appropriate health, social care or educational services, the withholding of the necessities of life, such as medication, adequate nutrition and heating.
- Discriminatory abuse- including racist, sexist, that based on a person's disability, age or sexuality and other forms of harassment, slurs or similar treatment.

Procedure in the event of a disclosure

It is important that vulnerable adults are protected from abuse. All complaints, allegations or suspicions must be taken seriously.

This procedure must be followed whenever an allegation of abuse is made or when there is a suspicion that a vulnerable adult has been abused.

Promises of confidentiality should not be given as this may conflict with the need to ensure the safety and welfare of the individual.

A full record shall be made as soon as possible of the nature of the allegation and any other relevant information.

This should include information in relation to the date, the time, the place where the alleged abuse happened, your name and the names of others present, the name of the complainant and, where different, the name of the adult who has allegedly been abused, the nature of the alleged abuse, a description of any injuries observed, the account which has been given of the allegation.

Responding to an allegation

Any suspicion, allegation or incident of abuse must be reported to a practitioner or trustee on that working day where possible.

A practitioner shall report the matter by telephone to a trustee, who will discuss the matter with her/his fellow trustees. A written record of the date and time of the report shall be made and the report must include the name and position of the person to whom the matter is reported.

Responding appropriately to an allegation of abuse

In the event of an incident or disclosure a Sound Resource trustee should:

- Make sure the individual is safe
- Assess whether emergency services are required and if needed call them
- Listen
- Offer support and reassurance
- Ascertain and establish the basic facts
- Make careful notes and obtain agreement on them
- Ensure notation of dates, time and persons present are correct and agreed
- Take all necessary precautions to preserve forensic evidence
- Follow correct procedure
- Explain areas of confidentiality; immediately speak to your manager for

Support and guidance

- Explain the procedure to the individual making the allegation
- Remember the need for on-going support

Neither the Sound Resource practitioner, volunteer or trustee should:

- Confront the alleged abuser
- Be judgmental or voice your own opinion
- Be dismissive of the concern
- Investigate the matter or interview the alleged victim beyond that which is necessary to establish the basic facts
- Disturb or destroy possible forensic evidence
- Consult with persons not directly involved with the situation
- Ask leading questions
- Assume Information
- Make promises
- Ignore the allegation

- Elaborate in your notes-(i.e. put your own interpretation or opinions in)

It is important to remember that the person who first encounters a case of alleged abuse, although they may be concerned, is not responsible for deciding whether abuse has occurred. This is a task for the professional adult protection agencies, following a referral from the designated key worker.

Confidentiality

Vulnerable adult protection raises issues of confidentiality which should be clearly understood by all.

Practitioners, volunteers and trustees have a professional responsibility to share relevant information about the protection of vulnerable adults with other professionals, particularly investigative agencies and adult social services.

Clear boundaries of confidentiality will be communicated to all.

All personal information regarding a vulnerable adult will be kept confidential. All written records will be kept in a secure area for a specific time as identified in data protection guidelines. Records will only record details required in the initial contact form.

If an adult confides in a practitioner, volunteer or trustee and requests that the information is kept secret, it is important that the practitioners, volunteer or trustee tells the adult sensitively that he or she has a responsibility to refer cases of alleged abuse to the appropriate agencies.

Within that context, the adult should, however, be assured that the matter will be disclosed only to people who need to know about it.

Where possible, consent should be obtained from the adult before sharing personal information with third parties. In some circumstances obtaining consent may be neither possible nor desirable as the safety and welfare of the vulnerable adult is the priority.

Where a disclosure has been made, practitioners should let the adult know the position regarding their role and what action they will have to take as a result.

The practitioners, volunteer or trustee should assure the adult that they will keep them informed of any action to be taken and why. The adults involvement in the process of sharing information should be fully considered and their wishes and feelings taken into account.

The role of key individual agencies

Adult Social Services

The Department of Health's recent 'No secrets' guidance document requires that authorities develop a local framework within which all responsible agencies work together to ensure a coherent policy for the protection of vulnerable adults at risk of abuse.

All local authorities have a Safeguarding Adults Board, which oversees multi-agency work aimed at protecting and safeguarding vulnerable adults. It is normal practice for the board to comprise of people from partner organisations who have the ability to influence decision making and resource allocation within their organisation. Ways to Raise an Alert

You can also raise a concern on the phone. Please call 0345 0507 666 with as much information as you have. If you need to raise a concern outside of standard office hours and the concern is urgent, please call the Emergency Duty Service on 0800 833 408.

What Happens Next?

Every concern raised about the possible abuse of a vulnerable adult is taken seriously. When a concern is raised with the Health and Social Care team, they will pass this information to the Adult Safeguarding Team. The wishes of whoever is the subject of the concern will always be listened to and acted upon, and then a decision will be made about what needs to happen next.

Usually the next steps will involve investigation of the allegation and further discussions with other professionals to ensure the individuals safety. Any safeguarding plan will try to ensure that the best possible outcome for the subject of the referral is achieved, and we have a very good track record in achieving this goal. Both the referrer and the person who is being abused will be informed of what is going on as far as possible.

The Police

The Police play a vital role in Safeguarding Adults with cases involving alleged criminal acts. It becomes the responsibility of the police to investigate allegations of crime by preserving and gathering evidence. Where a crime is identified, the police will be the lead agency and they will direct investigations in line with legal and other procedural protocols.

Role of trustees within Sound Resource

The role of the trustees is to deal with all instances involving adult protection that arise within Sound Resource. They will respond to all vulnerable adult protection concerns and enquiries and support any practitioner or volunteer who raises a suspected case of abuse. Sound Resource will provide training on adult protection issues to practitioners, volunteers, trustees.

Trustees should ensure that all practitioners and volunteers are familiar with Sound Resource's vulnerable adult protection procedures and ensure that all practitioners and volunteers undertake training, where appropriate.

Role of practitioners or volunteers within Sound Resource

Should practitioners or volunteers have any suspicions or concerns relating to Adult

Protection, they should immediately contact the Sound Resource trustee Paul Cann on 07967 366396.

Training

Training will be provided, as appropriate, to ensure that trustees, practitioners and volunteers are aware of these procedures.

Recruitment procedure

Sound Resource operates procedures that take account of the need to safeguard and promote the welfare of vulnerable adults, including arrangements for appropriate checks on new practitioners, volunteers and trustees where applicable.
